Since opening to the public in 2003, Second Life™, a 3-D virtual world, has grown explosively and today is inhabited by millions of users, known as “residents,” from around the globe.

The featured speaker, Jeffrey Lipsky, will explain how Second Life™ helped him create an advanced level of social and business networking opportunities for his art business.

Mr. Lipsky will also provide a live demonstration of “Artropolis,” an “island” he created for Second Life™, where artists can meet virtually to interact with each other through motional avatars.
